why can't major power lines be buried as they are in parts of Europe? Why ruin a picture perfect countryside with large power lines and transformers? My husband grew up in Europe and the beauty was uninterrupted by power lines because they were buried below ground. It is disheartening to see and hear of this! As a customer of Idaho Power in the beautiful Treasure Valley I'd expect management to consider other options. There is something special about the West and we need to all do our best to keep it that way. Please take these comments into consideration and look at all options. Thank you!
