

comment@boardmantohemingway.com

From: EnviroLytical - B2H <info@envirolytical.com>
Sent: Friday, March 13, 2015 9:40 AM
To: comment@boardmantohemingway.com
Subject: New Communication: My best friends/family live out on McKay Creek in Pilot Rock, Oregon. Their property is the Anderson Ranch. A long time fixture in that neck of the woods. I met them here in Idaho many years ago. They

Patricia Hammill <leterbuckpsh@gmail.com>

<https://el2.envirolytical.com/communication/view/102969>

My best friends/family live out on McKay Creek in Pilot Rock, Oregon. Their property is the Anderson Ranch. A long time fixture in that neck of the woods. I met them here in Idaho many years ago. They love Idaho and have strong roots here. But their roots in Oregon run deep as well. They returned to their family's ranch several years ago to carry on the tradition of raising their children and making their livelihood on that special piece of ground. This proposed project will not only run through the land that they own, but will track directly over their home. It will tear out their roundpen and arena, two structures that are vital to their business. It will desecrate the swimming hole, yard, and tree house where their children play daily. It seems asinine to me that you would rather run this power line straight over existing structures, lives, and privately owned land rather than find another route for it. If this was your home and your land (for more than 85 years) wouldn't you fight to keep it the way that it is? These people are great stewards of the land that they OWN and manage. Please don't take that privileged away from them.