I am continually flabbergasted at how companies are being allowed to do their business on people's private lands and even public lands as well. This is truly an abomination! Your company has no right to much of this land and the people who do own the land and have a right to it DO NOT WANT YOU THERE. They have the right to tell you NO. If the government backs your company up and doesn't listen to the people there will be backlash in the future. It is already happening. We are tired of being lied to and misled by large conglomerate companies and by politicians. It's time to heal the earth and stop destroying it just so your company can make millions and billions of dollars. This greed needs to stop.
