We would like to voice our strong opposition to the Boardman to Hemingway Transmission Line Project (B2H) as presently planned.

As members of our nations premier historic trails preservation group, the Oregon-California Trails Association (OCTA), for over 30 years, we are fully aware of the importance that the trails have played in our nations history. Our nations history is an integral part of our democracy, and this history must be preserved for future generations. Once priceless trail remnants or view sheds are lost; they are lost forever.

Why have alternative routes for the lines not been analyzed for public review? Routes through Central Oregon, to Burns to Hemingway current right-of-way or a route through Idaho via the Snake River dams using current power lines would eliminate the severe, irreversible impacts on existing trail the Boardman to Hemingway Transmission Line Project will have if it goes ahead as planned.

Sincerely,

William T. Nolan
